SLOUGH WORK STARTS TODAY

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Perhaps in years to come, there will be no opera, no operettas, no musical shows—except in the talkies.

Fans of Richmond who visit the local show houses to see some of these musical shows, return with nothing but high praise for the films.

Sound, coupled with color, has made it possible to reproduce for the average person some of the famous musical shows that heretofore only Broadway saw.

Recently, a well known opera star declared that the talkies is the only medium of presenting a perfect opera.

And perhaps she is right.

June is approaching and some of our jewelers will have a busy season selling engagement and wedding rings.

Which the head of the house will be paying for during the next three years at a dollar down and a dollar the next time he's caught.

And real estate agents will be spending busy days and nights showing houses, apartments and flats.

And the brides to be—that is, some of 'em—will be learning just how to make biscuits.

Speaking of biscuits reminds us of eating, and speaking of eating reminds us of an old French friend.

"Cooking," he said, "is a difficult art to master. And a good cook is an artist."

The long search for Judge Eng's has ended.

His death may be attributed to over-work and over-strain.

Men can control their nerves until a certain point—and then there comes the break.

During the war, hundreds of men broke—suffering what they call shell shock.

And a majority of these poor creatures were thin men.

Science explains this fact by declaring that fat men, or fat women, have learned to control their nerves.

Perhaps this is true—perhaps not.

Wonder what a barber thinks about when he is shaving a customer?

There's an object of scientific research for somebody.

Roy Chapman Andrews has started off into the wilds of China again in search of the home of the first man.

SPORTS

LIONS BEATEN BY LINKERS TEAM

The Odd Fellows' baseball team acted rather oddly yesterday afternoon on the high school diamond.

First they spent the first eight innings of their game in presenting the Richmond Lions with a five to one lead. Their league-leading qualities were submerged for the time being.

Then, they suddenly decided that they would like to have a straight-win season to their credit. The result was a 7 to 6 victory for the Linkers.

The Lions practically had the victory in their hands, but slipped through their fingers by the narrow margin of a three bagger. They had found poor opposition in the Odd Fellows during the first eight innings. A hitting test in the third inning had better them five runs, collected by Hampshire, Miller, Prolo, Helse, and Lemon. Moitza had scored the only run for the Odd Fellows in the first inning.

So everything was sitting pretty for the Lions at the beginning of the seventh. But after Rosano, catcher for the linkers, had popped out to "Babe" Matteri, C. Pinto walked. Lehmkuhl was hit by a pitched ball. The Lions were still confident of victory. But, Brown singled, Matteri singled, Gordon went to first on Prolo's error, Moitza singled, Gualdoni tripled, and the score stood 7 to 5 in favor of the Linkers. Rosano concluded the inning by going out, Pinto to Klatt.

Bewildered and chagrined, the Odd Fellows flustered in from the field to take up the history in an effort to turn the already-once-turned tables. Lemon went out, Gualdoni to Moitza, Billy Hampshire circled the bases on a long drive into left field. Miller popped out to Babich. Prolo singled, but Pinto went out to Gordon. The game was over, and the Lions returned to their dens weary and disappointed and the Odd Fellows returned home to spin their yarn of a close victory.

During the first two and a half innings, two representatives of the Matteri family opposed each other on the mound. Charley Matteri did the chucking for the Linkers for two and a half periods, while "Babe" Matteri threw for the Lions during the entire game. Charley was replaced in the middle of the elevated position for the remainder of the contest. Charley was nipped for two hits, three walks, and maintained four strike-outs. Gualdoni allowed five hits, one walk, and whiffed three Lion swatters. "Babe" Matteri allowed seven hits, walked three Odd Fellows, and fanned three Linkers.

The Standard Oil nine and the Mechanics Bank athletes will meet tonight at five o'clock on the high school diamond in another Richmond City Twilight League game.

STAR COOKS IN FILM PLAY AT FOX

Nancy Carroll in her various activities before the camera, and microphone, has been a show-girl, a ladies' maid, a members of a ladies' orchestra and a sales clerk—but now she is a "kitchen mechanic."

In "Honey," which comes to the Fox California today and tomorrow, Miss Carroll plays the role of Olivia Dangerfield, a southern girl, who is forced by circumstances to rent her family's plantation mansion to a wealthy woman from the east. Due to unforeseen events, Nancy is forced to assume an Irish brogue and fulfill the duties of cook in the kitchen of the mansion. She finally saves the homestead from financial disaster after a series of very amusing and romantic episodes.

"Honey" is based on "Come Out the Kitchen," famous Broadway stage success of several years ago. The play was written by A. E. Thomas from the original novel by Alice Duer Miller. The music was written by Harling and Coslow.

The screen adaptation was written by Herman J. Mankiewicz, veteran scenarist of Paramount's staff.

In the supporting cast of the play are Harry Green, as Helton, the comedy detective; Skeets Gallagher, as Nancy's brother and the temporary butler; Lillian Roth, ZaSu Pitts, Mitzie Green and Charles Shelton. All have established themselves on the talking screen as veteran comedy character actors.

Stanley Smith, the handsome young actor from Hollywood High school, who was Miss Carroll's leading man in "Sweetie," plays the romantic role in "Honey." Smith was placed under a long term contract by Paramount after executives of the company analyzed the "Sweetie" reviews of 30 movie critics of the country's leading cities.

On the same bill will be seen Taylor Holmes in "Let Me Explain."

WILD WOMEN SHOWN IN TALKIE

There are wild women in Africa. Not the kind referred to in some social circles of this country, however! These women are really wild—veritable amazons who dwell in the jungles depths and may be members of a strange tribe which is said to give a woman each year to the gorillas!

This sounds like a startling assertion to make and it is. But in the wonder film "Ingagi" coming to the Richmond theater today, tomorrow and Thursday it seems there are examples presented of these wild creatures of the wilderness. Also the adventures in this film come upon creatures that are apparently half-breed, half-ape, half-human. According to reports, these scenes are amazing and from a scientific point of view decidedly upsetting.

The wild women live in trees or near the ground, they cannot be closely approached and are evident-

Germans, Poles In Border Clash

WARSAW, May 26.—UP—A Polish frontier guard died today of wounds, allegedly inflicted, by German border guards, and the government instructed Minister Roman Knoll at Berlin to ask for indemnities.

According to reports received here, the Germans fired on the Polish guards near Muensterwald, on the right bank of the Vistula. Later the Germans were said to have arrested the Polish officers on Polish territory and conducted them into Germany.

BERLIN, May 26.—UP—Officials here denied knowledge of border fighting between Polish and German guards today. They questioned the Polish version of the alleged incidents.

Feeling between Poles and Germans has often been bitter since the war, when Poland won large slices of German territory. Recently efforts have been made to patch up the differences, through the negotiation of trade and conciliation agreements.

They wear little save a skin of some animal or a dress of feathers about the waist.

Change furnace drudgery into automatic, care-free heating

Use your present furnace

HERE is automatic, care-free heating which actually costs less than heating which requires constant watching at the furnace door!

You can thank Natural Gas for that.

And Natural Gas can be used in your present furnace to supply this automatic, care-free heating. The change-over is easy and very inexpensive. We merely install the new "Conversion Burner" in the firebox.

Then you can fire your furnace from your easy chair—you simply move a tiny lever on the Thermostat which we mount on the wall of your living-room. The Thermostat controls the furnace far better than a janitor could if he watched beside the furnace day and night. This Thermostat automatically keeps your home at a steady, even temperature. You stop the furnace by moving this same tiny lever.

Healthful and Safe

When you install the "Conversion Burner," you substitute clean Natural Gas for your present fuel. The Natural Gas burns inside the steel firebox. All products of combustion go outdoors through a chimney just as the smoke does from your present fire. The pure, warm air which heats your home does not come in contact with the burning gas. It passes around the hot outsides of the steel firebox.

This is Ideal Heating

The "Conversion Burner" makes living easier. Mother won't have to fire the furnace when father is away. Guests will always be warm and comfortable. No one need interrupt a party to fire the furnace. Your home is more healthful—there is no over-heating, no under-heating.

For a demonstration of the "Conversion Burner," call at our office, or telephone and a representative will give you full details.

RUM BUYERS HELD NOT GUILTY

WASHINGTON, May 26.—UP—The purchaser of intoxicating liquor is guilty of no offense under the Volstead law, the supreme court decided unanimously today.

The government's test indictment charging James E. Farrar, Boston, with violation of the permit section of the dry law, was held properly quashed by the Boston district court. Farrar purchased two pints of liquor from a bootlegger at Medford, Mass.

The decision, written by Justice Sutherland said beverage liquor purchases are not to be included in the provision which forbids purchase without a Treasury department permit. The permit provision applies only to those authorized by the law to deal in liquor. The purchase of beverage liquor by the public is under the Volstead act's general provision which forbids sale, transportation, possession, and other dealings not including purchase and use of liquor.

The decision means no change in Federal enforcement. The Treasury department since prohibition began 10 years ago has been adhering to a policy of regarding liquor-buyers as free from arrest and prosecution. Assistant Secretary Lowman said.

The decision is a final one on this question as far as the courts are concerned, but Senator Shepard, Dem., Tex., author of the Eighteenth amendment said it only showed the necessity of congress passing his bill designed to make the buyer guilty with the seller of illegal liquor.

There is some doubt whether such a law if enacted would come within the Eighteenth amendment, which does not forbid sale or use of liquor.

Sutherland tossed out of court without a ruling on the merits, a companion case, involving the validity of indicting Alfred E. Norris, New York broker, on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act through transporting liquor because he ordered whiskey by telephone from a Philadelphia bootlegger.

Graf Ready To Leave For U. S. From Brazil

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 26.—UP—The Graf Zeppelin, safely moored after a 2500 mile round trip to Rio De Janeiro, took on fuel and supplies today for its fourth visit to the United States.

It is scheduled to leave here for Havana, Cuba, and Lakehurst, N. J. some time early Wednesday, the hour still indefinite.

Meantime the Pernambuco populace celebrated a holiday and feted Dr. Hugo Eckener, the dirigible's commander. Enthusiasm over the Zeppelin's visit continued high despite criticism over the shortness of the Graf's stay in Rio, the Brazilian capital.

Informed that the airship would return here early today, crowds assembled at the airfield as early as seven a. m. Two biplane pilots escorted the Zeppelin over the field at 8:29, while the terrain echoed with cheers. The big craft landed at 8:53.

A tea dance was given in Eckener's honor later in the day, several hours after a luncheon by the German consul. Four passengers, including two Americans, William B. Leeds and J. H. Durrell, prepared to go aboard here for the trip to Lakehurst.

The dirigible, which left Friedrichshafen, Germany, a week ago yesterday, flew to Seville, Spain, across the south Atlantic to Pernambuco and then down to Rio De Janeiro and back, faces a flight of some 4700 miles from here to the Lakehurst naval hangar.

GANG MURDER STRIKE RIOTS MYSTERY HURT MANY DEEPENS IN INDIA

SAN RAFAEL, May 26.—UP—There were two interesting developments here today as county and federal authorities went through a maze of conflicting evidence to solve the gangster killing of Melville Sturtevant, star government witness in a recent liquor trial.

First was the discovery that the two cartridges removed from Sturtevant's body at the inquest were of different weight and markings, indicating they came from separate revolvers. If this were proven it would add confusion to the statements made by Mrs. Grace Berri, who was wounded when Sturtevant was killed, and Vincent Lucich who surrendered the next day.

This theory was given weight by the second development of the day, which was an announcement by District Attorney Henry Greer that a roadhouse allegedly owned by D. Celani was hit by a bomb today, and ransacked for liquor.

Whether or not anyone was injured in connection with the assault hijacking raid, the district attorney could not say.

He likewise intimated that the raid might have an important connection with the shooting of Sturtevant and Mrs. Berri, but refused to say anything further.

Similar secrecy was preserved by federal operatives who over the week-end arrested three men, Richard Frank Fitzgerald, and Kenneth Myers for impersonating federal agents.

This charge is ordinarily used against high-jackers.

A fourth man was said to be sought on a secret warrant. These arrests are also believed to be linked with the last Wednesday's shootings for which Lucich is now awaiting trial on a first degree murder charge.

Machine Seen
Another new development, about which even greater secrecy is being maintained, is the statement by Greer that a machine assertedly belonging to a defendant in the Macdonald trial was seen standing before Lucich's home, the night before the double shooting.

U. S. District Attorney George Hattie had refused to state whether he has requested the Department of Justice to send investigators to take charge of the case, as has been suspected.

Meanwhile Lucich's attorney, John Boyd, has stated that he would base his defense on Lucich's statements that he killed Sturtevant in self-defense.

BOMBAY, India, May 26.—UP—Vicious strike riots were added to salt raids today as India's nationalist volunteers extended their disobedience campaign further into the economic field.

Seven weeks after Mahatma Gandhi launched the independence drive, there was agitation among Europeans for a stronger policy by the British rulers, and among the Gandhi followers for a more violent contrary show of strength.

Twelve persons were killed and 53 injured in a fight between the striking dock workers and strike breakers at Rangoon. Nationalist agitators were believed active in the Burmese city, particularly among the dockworkers, who two weeks ago struck for higher pay.

The strikers, mostly uncultured Burmese and Indians brought in from Assam, were assailed by the strikers in the streets. The mounted police dashed to their aid and the strikers retaliated with stones.

Fifty Hurt.
Fifty were reported injured in a battle between police and strikers in the Delhi cotton mills. The strikers threw bricks.

New salt raids were reported from government depots at Wadala and Wadia, in the Bombay district and at Kharaghoda, near Ahmedabad.

Forty-three nationalist volunteers were arrested at Wadala, where 115 of their comrades were taken into custody yesterday. They were part of a "congress army" which returned to the scene this morning. The party made off with 50 pounds of government salt.

The Wadala pans, 6 miles north of Wadala, were raided last night by mill hands from Kuria. Some 600 attacked and stoned one British sergeant and three native salt police. Additional British sergeants arrived, but all retreated into the salt pans. The senior sergeant fired his revolver into the ground and later ordered six shots fired into the crowd.

Police Retire
The mob stood its ground, however, and the police retired, leaving the salt pans in the raiders' possession.

All the police were injured. Congress volunteers were accompanied by villagers in the raiding of the Kharaghoda salt works. Mounted and foot police met them on the road and attempted to seize the salt. A fight followed in which 100 were reported injured, four seriously.

The volunteers continued defiance, despite the successive arrests of their four principal leaders, brought demands for a more drastic action by the police.

Some authorities urge martial law in the Bombay district, pointing to the disposition of some of the congress leaders to abandon the policy of non-violence. Speaking to the congress committee at Surat, Mohammed Narmayya, advocated open violence by the independence workers and exhorted the people to rise with arms.

California banks loaned more than one billion dollars, or practically one-half their loans for direct financing of real estate.

BANDITS TAKE EMERALD MINE

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 26.—UP—The second richest emerald mine in Colombia was in the hands of a large group of armed bandits today while government troops and police were being hurried to the scene from Bogota. A clash was expected momentarily.

The bandits overpowered the garrison at the Cosquez mine and firmly entrenched themselves there, one half of the band working the emerald deposits and the other half remaining on guard, reports said.

First information was that the bandits totaled 100, all armed with rifles. They sent a communication to government troops outside the mine, however, saying they numbered 400 and that they would defend their position with their lives.

"We are ready to kill in case we are attacked," the note said. The Cosquez ranks next in Colombia to the famous Muzo mine, which produces the finest emeralds in the world.

42 Slain In Battle With Guerillas

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 26.—UP—Unconfirmed reports from Pernambuco today said 42 persons were killed and many injured in a battle between troops and Guerillas at Sitio, state of Baranyba.

The newspaper Diaria da Manhã reported that the militia captured the town of Sitio after 54 hours of fighting.

The battle was believed an outgrowth of a months-long struggle between two political factions.

THE WOMAN OF IT

But Women, Also, Need Jobs!

WHEN food has failed to go around, human beings, hopelessly adrift on land or sea, have been known to eat one another. Perhaps it is a natural sequence that, at such a time as the present, when jobs are so scarce, one another's opportunities to work. Here may be the explanation of numerous letters of bitter, irrational, unfair protest against working women which have appeared of late in the columns of The Evening World.

The first onslaught was against the married woman worker. "Don't you think," challenges one indignant correspondent, "there should be a law passed forbidding married women whose husbands earn a good salary from taking a job away from single girls who must support themselves?"

"I fully agree," declares another letter-writer. "Married women should be compelled to give up their positions to single girls who need them. They not only spoil the husbands by relieving them of the responsibility they assume when they marry, but they also deprive single girls of the opportunity to work. I have had three husbands. (At this point, the wife with a job may be excused for wondering if her critic's idea of a husband will be a good one.)"

Then, a special privilege is granted to those who have paid jobs are a special privilege. "All women who have paid jobs are a special privilege," says another. "All women who have paid jobs are a special privilege." "All women who have paid jobs are a special privilege."

As many as a million women are employed in the United States, according to the Bureau of Labor. The fact is, it is difficult for a woman who has worked all her adult life because, like nearly every other woman worker, she needed the job and the money—it is exceedingly difficult for such a woman to answer temperately the argument that, married or single, she should lose her job because some man or some other woman wants it!

Therefore, we shall let two other admirably qualified women answer these absurd, acidulous attacks on the woman worker. First, here is the simple, logical, historical story of why women—married or unmarried—work, as recently explained by Mary Anderson, head of the Woman's Bureau of the Department of Labor. She says:

"With the development of the modern industrial system, which formerly had been in the home at very low cost had been to be purchased at much greater outlay of money. With the resultant new scale of living costs many men became unable under the existing wage standards to meet the family needs. Many women began to realize that they too must join the wage-earning ranks to earn a livelihood and to help hold home and family together."

At the same time from the expanding factories came the demand for women workers to help produce the Nation's goods. Women responded, forced from within and drawn from without. Naturally they have not been restricted to the transplanted industries but have entered any avenues of employment that have opened up. This is a nutshell, is why there are so many millions of women working to-day for remuneration of some kind.

The family responsibilities of single women wage earners are in general much heavier than society has been accustomed to recognize. Sons do not forego marriage and careers to anything like the extent that daughters remain at home because of the needs of parents or younger brothers and sisters. Studies by the Woman's Bureau show that contributions from daughters to the parental home are greater than those of sons.

"Protests are made that married women who have husbands to support them take jobs from men and single women."

CA DISH A DAY

If your family is fond of roast duck, now is the time to indulge them, for ducks are rarely to be had at the low price at which they are now offered in local markets. Long Island ducklings can be had in some markets as low as 25 cents a pound, and are only 30 cents in the more centrally located stores.

The ducklings in the market now are at their best, for they are young and of uniformly good quality. The meat is firm and tender.

In buying duck it is best to select those that weigh from five to six pounds, as the smaller ones the great weight of bone makes too high a percentage of waste.

Ordinarily, it is wise for the inexperienced cook who is tackling duck for the first time to braise and stew it, in order to insure tenderness, but the ducklings now in the market are so uniformly good and tender that any one can roast them with assured success.

The most common faults in roasting duck are failure to dispel the slightly gamey flavor and a tendency to retain too much of their fat. Usually ducks contain so much fat that a part of it has to be drained off, though there are occasional exceptions which can be cooked just as they are. The following recipe eliminates all chance of greasy or gamey duck.

ROAST DUCK

Examine the duck carefully to see that the butcher has cleaned it thoroughly. Be sure that the pipes in the vicinity of the crop have been removed. Pull out any leaves of fat from the inside with a paring knife and scrub the duck vigorously in hot water with a small brush. Rub the duck with salt and white pepper and sit for half an hour.

Peel and quarter two apples—three if the apples are small and the duck large—and place them inside. This stuffing is not to be eaten; it is cooked in the duck to absorb the strong flavor. Roast in a hot oven (375 to 400 degrees) for half an hour. At the end of fifteen minutes open the oven and prick the duck lightly all over to allow surplus fat to run out. Drain this from the roasting pan and return to the oven. At the end of half an hour, scoop out the apples and stuff the duck with the following dressing.

PEANUT BUTTER DRESSING

1½ cups bread or cracker crumbs
¼ cup peanut butter
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Dash of paprika
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
½ cup hot water
3 tablespoons fat drained from roasting pan
1 egg yolk

Moisten the bread crumbs with the hot water and add the fat. Work in the peanut butter and beaten egg yolk. Add seasoning. If the mixture is a little stiff, add more hot water. This stuffing can also be made with orange juice substituted for the water. This is delicious, as the flavor of oranges blends particularly well with roast duck.

After the duck has been stuffed, return it to the oven and roast from twenty minutes to half hour longer, depending on the size of the bird. Roast duck should be served with black currant or bramble jelly and braised celery.

Week-Ends Approach—Be Prepared

PAJAMAS OF PRINTED CREPE, CIRCULAR TROUSERS AND LOOSE THREE-QUARTER COAT.

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

IF YOU are not one to fight off week-ends—if you will go out to your country trustingly—then of course you may meet up with almost any conditions.

What about clothes? What to take along in a small space—to look as though you had stepped out of the proverbial handbox while the social stuff is on.

Not so light a little matter! Suit cases and handbags will creep up on you. After all, I know that you do want to look well dressed and groomed but it isn't really done to give the impression that you have come to spend the summer at the train.

Then for one suit case, possibly a hat box, to boot (I didn't say "for boots") let's consider the layout.

For Going Away

LEAVING the city? Don't dress up in your best town clothes and expect to feel any satisfaction in out-of-town surroundings. Get into your tweeds. Look rather as if you had come to town for a day or two instead of leaving it for the same time. A suit is good with a top coat or a cape over your arm. You've got to have something to protect you from the storm—maybe zero weather—that you may encounter. You never can tell about the country.

Then take a one-piece sports dress—white is best for it fits in with everything. I suggest embroidered initials on the collar or on the short sleeve (it's new and smart you know) in red and blue with a narrow red patent leather belt.

DAYTIME DRESS OF WHITE FLAT CREPE WITH EMBROIDERED MONOGRAM ON THE SLEEVE.

FLOWERED CHIFFON DRESS FOR AFTERNOON TEAS AND SUNDAY SUPPERS.

In this you are even ready for golf if you are driven to that activity, or you can sit around in it looking just swell.

Tuck in Shoes and Others

TAKE a pair of white shoes, black trimmed and leather heeled—tuck these in the hat box.

One jacket coat is necessary. You can make it jersey or crepe de chine and depend upon it to fold into nothingness for your baggage's sake.

Now, one printed chiffon—deep cape, full and longish skirt. You will be bound to meet up with Sunday evening suppers, afternoon teas at the club house, informal bridge—something like this.

And, there's just this about chiffon—mark it well—under the influence of steam in the bathroom even while you are washing up, its folds hang to wrinkleless lines, and you must have to sneak around in the direction of ironing boards by way of making yourself a nuisance.

Evening Chiffon

AN evening chiffon, if you are to dance or dine formally—and most likely you are—who can ever tell when the mysterious and often misleading invitation reads: "Come along any time—you can do as you please here—we never fuss or get vigorous." That's just to lure you on—make it sound easy. No such thing. You'll probably be breathlessly parting from early dawn to dewy eve, and take the whole following week to rest up for the next great rest cure.

Well, as I said, for evening the chiffon in pale colors—or jade green perhaps, or brown. It might even be lace. This should be very simply made, very full, very low. It also goes up with the bath room treatment.

If your husband won't take your shoes in his luggage, then a hat box is your next best bet—for you must have those sport shoes, you need a pair of crepe de chine pumps for the afternoon dress—and another pair of pumps dyed to match your frock for evening. And, if you are a great strong athletic girl who will walk to the top of the mountain to see the view or something like that, there are also the rubber soles.

Hats That Crush in

HATS are more manageable. You could wear a close, black cloche out from town and repeat it with your white sports frock.

You and Your Child

Bedtime

"I DON'T want to go to bed." These words echo in homes all over the world! How the little ones dislike going to bed, no matter how tired they are! Is this unnatural? The children are loath to leave their absorbing play. And then they do not relish being in a room all by themselves, cut off from the rest of the family. Isn't it tantalizing to consider all the interesting and exciting things that may be going on in their absence?

What can we do to offset this natural reluctance to go to bed? Having a regular bedtime hour helps somewhat, as the things we get used to doing are taken more or less as a matter of course. But this rarely solves the problem completely. Giving a warning such as "In ten minutes it will be bedtime, so finish what you are doing," is a considerate thing to do, as leaving one's pursuits abruptly is very distressing. But this device also, although helpful, is by no means a "cure-all."

Can't we make the going-to-bedtime a pleasant period so that our children will look forward to it and welcome its coming? How this is to be done will depend upon the youngster's individual tastes. Some young ones delight in stories. If we have plenty of interesting ones to tell or read to them they will undress quickly and scramble into bed so as to have a longer story time. Other children will love a song or two. Still others will enjoy a quiet talk or play with either Mother or Daddy. If we study our children's likes and interests we shall hit upon some scheme that will make bedtime a joyous, instead of an unhappy, occasion.

But just a word or two of warning. We want our little ones to go to sleep quickly and easily. So our story, song, talk or play must not be too exciting! Some children are much more easily stimulated than others, and we must take this into account in our selection of entertainment. Then, again, we must be watchful lest the youngsters get into the "Just one more" habit. When the hour decided upon as "sleep time" comes our "good night" should be final.

Is it too much to ask of parents that they devote still more time to their little ones? Isn't it only fair to the children that the change between the daytime activities and the quiet and "aloneness" of going to bed should not be too sudden?

"DAD, what holds the stars up? Are they plucked to the sky?"

"No, son, to start out with, what we call the sky is nothing but ether, a very rarified atmosphere, an almost nothing, and the stars, with the exception of our sister planets are suns—great flaming suns, many of them very much larger than our sun, whirling through space at terrific speeds."

"What makes the stars whirl?"

"Oh, go to bed."

TELLING THE WORLD

FROM ZEPP TO SHORE

D IARY of a Graf Zeppelin tourist:
MAY 17.—Bought ticket to Lakehurst, N. J., via Rio de Janeiro and Pernambuco. Cost $6,500. Thought they were selling me a share of the winning ticket in the Calcutta sweepstakes. Disappointed in length of ticket, too. Thought it would be five or six yards long, but it looked like a duet from Pelham to Grand Central Station. And conductor didn't even punch it when we came on board.

MAY 18: 11:15 A. M.—Left, Friedrichshafen on time and made a nice getaway. The Zeppelin is filled with gas, but shows no signs of billowness. From below, they say our Zepp would look just like a cigar if it had a red band around it. That reminds me we're not allowed to smoke aboard. Wish I'd brought along some chewing tobacco.

MAY 18: 12:40 P. M.—Sailing along smoothly now. Looked down on the Pyrenees Mountains and thought they were golf tees. Tried to get interested in a book, but couldn't kid myself I was in a hammock. Looked down 3,000 feet and we were over the ocean. Wish I'd brought my water wings.

MAY 18: 5:10 P. M.—About everybody aboard the Zeppelin is a special newspaper correspondent. Afraid if I don't become a reporter myself the other passengers will think I don't know how to read or write. Decided to write a special article for an American newspaper. Rolled foolscap into my typewriter and wrote: "By Elmer J. Gwiffus, Prominent Hay, Grain and Feed Dealer of Cronkhite, Minn. Copyright, 1930, by New York Daily East Bureau Special Features Syndicate and Conglomerated Press, Inc. in United States, Canada, Mexico, Japan, South America, England, Ireland, Scotland, India, Europe, Scandinavia, Sahara Desert and Island of Guam. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part or in smaller pieces, without the express permission of the author, is positively prohibited. Special dispatch by radio. On Board the Graf Zeppelin, Atlantic Ocean, Eastern Hemisphere, May 18." By the time I got that all written I was too tired to write any more. Will wait till tomorrow to write my impressions.

MAY 19, 10:32 A. M.—Would give anything for a smoke. Would even consider a couple of puffs of corn silk. Weather clear, track fast. Just passed over the Canary Islands. I threw them some bird seed.

MAY 19, 12:05 P. M.—Nothing but water under us now. And correspond- ing Association was helping to enforce Prohibition till it ordered no more set-ups served to Primo Carnera.

When you read that the biggest gas bag in the world is on a trip to South America, you might think the United States Senate is on another junket.

We didn't know the National Boxing Association was helping to enforce Prohibition till it ordered no more set-ups served to Primo Carnera.

Talking to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said:

"One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there is no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

GOLDEN DAWN

Copyright 1930, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS
Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl of the African tribe in British East African Protectorate, becomes the mystic bride of the black god Mungu, to her own distress and that of Tom Allen, who learns the secret of her white birth. She, camp bully and whipman so arranges matters that he has Tom transported to England. The Africans have seized the British African possessions. Telling of her colonial service, Mungu, she is thrusting his unbecoming attentions on Dawn. He threatens to expose her to the natives as white, and have her burned.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-THREE
He summoned a lieutenant. "Take Sergeant Herman and five men," he instructed his aide, "and meet the British commander and escort him here. We may as well invite him in. We are in no position to oppose attack. It would avail us nothing. If we should succeed in repulsing them temporarily, it would mean an uprising of the natives."

"Very well, sir," the lieutenant collected his detail and left. The British were commended by Colonel Judson, a bluff soldier who counted each day lost that failed to find him somewhere, along the countryside of his beloved England.

"The British have taken it," she said comprehending. "Quite. Corking little conquest. You'll tell Dawn that?"

As her creature of many unwholesome, the Maid now felt free to drown Duke in disappointment. She smiled, her dark eyes lighting with joy.

"And Shep Keyes?" she inquired. "English like him will they?"

Anger swelled Duke's throat. "I swear by the god Mungu, whom you despise and I disbelieve—I'll tell the natives that you invaded the temple. I'll tell them that you carried off their Thabu, the Thabu they saw married to their god right out there under the Tree of the Black God."

As she spoke her threat, her voice rose until it attained a fierce crescendo. It rather frightened Shep, weighted as it was with her fiery resolve.

"If you tell," he reminded, "you are going to have to tell dawn, too. You are a disgraced goddess."

"I'll gladly tell them that!" Steely menace crept into Shep's tones. "If you lives, you might tell dem," he said slowly.

Dawn was past the terror of his threats. "Kill me then," she challenged. "I'd rather die than be touched by you."

Her insult struck the whip man. With a barbaric snarl, he drew his whip and cracked it viciously toward her. His act stilled her. She quickly saw him as a killer, and resolved not to antagonize him further.

"Come on," he ordered, again lashing out at her. "We're gittin' out o' dis temple."

Dumbly she did as bidden. She stepped aside to allow him to choose his horse, but she only aroused another dark command from him. "You go where I tell you," he said, "down dat wide trail."

Silently, a few paces ahead of him Dawn walked. His shadow fell beside her and she could hear his heavy breathing like that of an angry animal. Strangely, she felt unafraid. It was as if she were going direct to her death and she had reached a point where she was beyond all caring. She would not allow herself to think of what she would do in case he forced himself upon her. The thought itself was intolerable.

An alien sound rose in the jungle air. Alertly, she listened. At first the sound was too joyful to be believable. Then it grew clearer. It was unmistakable. It was "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." Nor was there any mistaking the voices. Only British soldiers could sing the song in that cheerful strain.

She heard it too. He commanded Dawn to stop and he stood listening, his figure stiffened. He muttered a jungle curse. "The English!"

Ordering Dawn to wait while he reconnoitered he went cautiously down the trail. Hidden from the approaching men by foliage, he watched them. His disappointment and rage were terrible to behold when he failed to identify anybody save the Askari guards, all of whom, he was further maddened to observe, were disarmed. He hurried back to Dawn.

EL CERRITO LEGALIZES FIREWORKS

In order to protect the local merchants the council of El Cerrito at its meeting last night passed the first reading of an ordinance allowing the sale and firing of fireworks in the city.

Councilman Peter Larsen who had the ordinance introduced stated that all the people bought their fireworks in Albany last year and the local merchants should have the benefit of the business.

The ordinance repeals the present providing that no fireworks can be sold in the city and prohibits the firing of fireworks. Under the new ordinance all fireworks may be sold and fired in the city with the exception of giant fire crackers and skyrockets. Provisions also made that local merchants paying a business tax may sell without a license but all others must secure a permit and pay a tax, which will be set next Monday night.

For violation of the ordinance a fine of $300 or three months in jail may be imposed.

In answer to the complaint of Charles Kaufman that a certain place on San Pablo avenue was becoming the home of old boilers and very unsightly, Councilman Peter Larsen informed the council that they were placed there temporarily until the owner could secure another location.

On the recommendation of Councilman Phil A. Lee the council ordered five municipal handbooks purchased.

Request of Councilman Hans M. Nissen for a two weeks leave of absence to leave the state on a vacation was granted by the council.

Report of Mayor J. P. D. Clark that Kern street in the Mira Vista district was in need of repairs was referred to Street Commissioner Peter Larsen.

Arrangements for a meeting with truck salesmen will be arranged next Monday night to discuss the contemplated purchase of a truck for the street department. The type to be used will be probably a six cylinder truck of two and one half ton capacity.

On a complaint of Mrs. Gaylord the council instructed Councilman Phil A. Lee to have a drive slow sign erected on Santa Fe avenue near the Sunset View cemetery as automobiles coming around the curve was very dangerous.

Jury Holds Judge Death An Accident

OAKLAND, May 26.—The willow thicket in which the body of Judge Edward W. Engs was found yesterday was thoroughly searched several days before the discovery—and at that time the body was positively not there.

This was the testimony given police today by Daniel McGregor, 1101 Mountain boulevard, Oakland. McGregor said he and a troop of Boy Scouts had examined every inch of the quarry, into which the judge was thought to have fallen from a 150 foot cliff, but had failed to find any trace of him.

In spite of McGregor's testimony, however, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death. This verdict was supported by opinions of physicians who declared Engs had lain dead in the quarry since May 16, the day he disappeared from his home.

The body was found Sunday by Jack E. Maher, iron worker, Alameda, and Paul Bonham, shirt manufacturer, Oakland.

Funeral services were held here today, followed by cremation. The services were private. William Nat Frind, Oakland postmaster, delivered a short eulogy. All business at the county superior courts was suspended in honor of the judge.

British Scored By U. S. Hindus

MARYSVILLE, May 26.—UP—Five hundred Hindus from Pacific coast cities cabled London today, protesting the imprisonment of Mahatma Gandhi and other Indian revolt leaders.

This action followed a meeting here last night of the American branch of the Indian National Congress.

Prominent Hindus addressed the meeting, deploring what they termed "British arrogance" in the Indian situation.

The assembly planned to send a number of California Hindus to India, to join with the Independence Volunteers.

California has 25 banks ranging in deposits from fifteen million dollars to 840 millions of dollars.

Police Capture Notorious Gang Of Jewel Thiefs

NEW YORK, May 26.—UP—Trapped by detectives in a room at a downtown hotel here today, four men and a woman were arrested in connection with two big jewel robberies in Florida last February.

When detectives entered the room all five were sitting around a bed upon which was spread an assortment of jewelry valued at more than $300,000. When the officers walked in the woman hastily tore up and swallowed a piece of paper, and one of the men tossed something out of a window.

Those arrested were Hilda Carter, 25, no address; William J. O'Connor, 41, Buffalo, N. Y.; Jack Rosen, 38, New York; James W. Watson, 48, no address; and Geo. Cole, 42, of New York. They are held temporarily on a charge of possessing stolen property, pending the receipt of police checkups in Florida, Chicago and Buffalo.

Police suspect them of complicity in half a dozen of the greatest jewel robberies perpetrated in years. Among the thefts the police mentioned are:

January, 1929 — George Maubossin, society jeweler, New York, $500,000.

November, 1929 — A society dinner party in Buffalo, N. Y., where guests at a country home were held up and robbed of jewels, and furs valued at $400,000.

February, 1930 — Robberies at two Miami Florida, hotels, whose proceeds totalled $200,000.

TRAMPLING ART FOR PROFITS

FOR all its virtues, modern industrialism can run amuck under the spur of greed for profits. Witness, the ruin threatening the Art of Music.

300 musicians in Hollywood supply all the "music" aired in thousands of theaters. Can you see a tiny reservoir of talent bubbling artistic progress?

The true function of the machine is to increase the value of the product fed into it—not to debauch it. Therefore mechanical music, as a substitute for living music, is a spurious form of progress—like a loom converting good wool into shoddy.

The gramophone, however operated, is a grand organ still. For music is an emotional art, a form of social intercourse, and hence dependent upon human contact.

Who profits by the elimination of genuine music from the theatre? Not the music-loving public! Not the musician!

If you agree that theatre patrons are entitled to real music—in addition to talking and sound motion pictures, for the price they pay—HELP SAVE THE ART FROM RUIN. Enroll with millions of others in the Music Defense League. When the public's voice is raised its will must be served!
